

SPRING 2020 COLLOQUIUM SERIES

Ph.D. PROGRAM IN ANTHROPOLOGY

Unless otherwise noted, colloquia take place 4:15 to 6:15 pm in rm. C415A (concourse level) at The Graduate Center, CUNY. Refreshments follow in the Brockway Room (6402). For more information visit:
gc.cuny.edu/anthropology

02.07.20

NINA GLICK SCHILLER

Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology

DISPOSSESSION:

A CONJUNCTURAL ANALYSIS

ABSTRACT

Analyses of emerging processes of capital accumulation through dispossession can illuminate both ethnographic research and struggles to build inclusive movements for social justice at a global conjunctural moment of racist authoritarianism and the rise of a neo-fascist "right". After examining the current moment and debates about the nature and contemporary significance of accumulation by dispossession, I link these debates to the anthropology of migration, cities, and social movements.